

Activity type

Definition

Key uniquely identifying "an.

Activity types represent the activity produced by a cost center and are measured in units of time or measure (quantities).

Within activity type planning you can set control data to specify whether the price for activity type valuation is to be set manually or calculated iteratively using price calculation.